fall 2016
july–december

Dear Reader,

We are pleased to present our Fall 2016 catalog, featuring books published from July 2016 through December 2016. We are especially proud of this edition, because it announces our new licensing and media tie-in imprint, Sizzle Press.

The creation of Sizzle Press marks our foray into licensed publishing. This imprint will encompass movie tie-ins, media tie-ins, and pop culture-related books. In 2016 we'll be publishing a range of movie tie-in books for Ice Age: Collision Course, novelty books based on Sago Mini apps, new Shopkins titles, and much more.

Sizzle Press is testament to not only our growth, but also our desire and commitment to publishing a wide array of quality children's products. Alongside Little Bee Books, Sizzle Press will introduce young readers to mainstream content and innovative formats. This is such an exciting time for us, and we are thrilled to include you on this journey!

To keep up-to-date on the development of both of our imprints, please visit us on all of our platforms: Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, Instagram, and Pinterest under the name littlebeebooks. You can also email us directly at info@littlebeebooks.com and visit our revamped website, littlebeebooks.com.

Thank you for your continued support, and happy reading!

An Encyclopedia that illuminates the wonderful world of emojis!

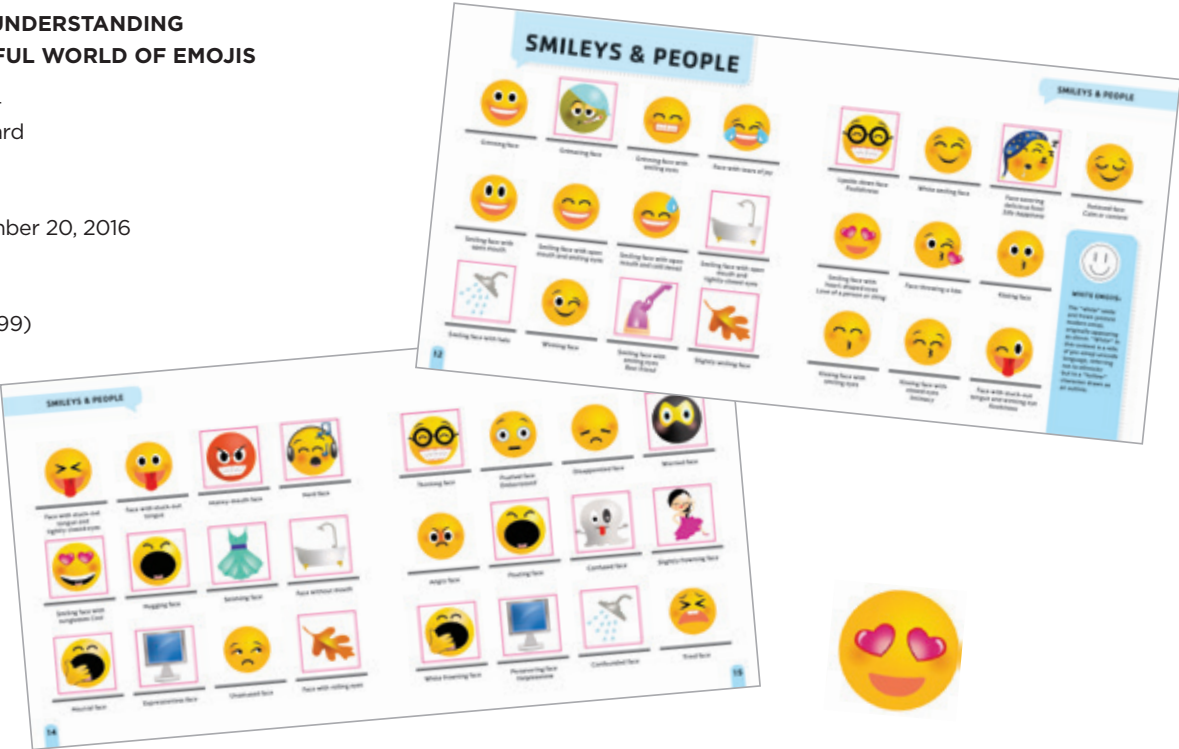

They say a picture is worth a thousand words, and when it comes to emojis, that's definitely true! Every day, millions of smiley faces, thumbs up, dancing girls, slices of pizza, and pumped-up biceps are sent to family and friends from electronic devices all around the world. The cute symbols are designed to sum up a tone or mood, emotions, desires, jokes, and more, all through just one character. But how can you be sure you're using the right one? All will be made clear in the Emojipedia!

The Black and White Factory is an entertaining, interactive picture book!

Penguin, Zebra, and Panda take readers on a top-secret tour to see the exclusively black-and-white products this special factory makes: salt and pepper shakers, dice, and tuxedos. But when the tour gets to the bar code room, color seeps in! Kids will have a blast being a part of this fortunate factory mishap. Readers can get involved in the story by shaking the book, turning it upside down, swirling a finger on the pages, and blowing air to try to get rid of the pesky colors. Ultimately, though, there's too much color to clean up, it spreads all over the factory, and the animals adore it!

A thoughtful, anti-bullying book from talented author/illustrator Henry Cole.

Eddie is a small chicken, but he's a BIG bully. When a new student, Carla the pig, comes to school one day, everyone is prepared for Eddie's worst. But when Carla compliments Eddie's clothes, asks him to sit with her at lunch, and is extremely sweet to him, Eddie is thrown for a loop. Carla's kindness makes him feel great! And when he starts to think about how he has treated his classmates, he feels bad. Eddie resolves to help Carla make new friends . . . and he ends up being nice to everyone else as well! This book includes a letter from Henry Cole about the real-life Eddie.

He hid Anthony's homework.

He splattered paint on Melissa's art project.

Eddie's eyes narrowed.
He grinned an evil grin.
He opened his mouth to speak.

HENRY COLE was born on a dairy farm near Purcellville, Virginia, and was an adored elementary-school science teacher for sixteen years. He has since illustrated over 120 popular picture books including Unspoken: A Story from the Underground Railroad. Mr. Cole has always loved art and science, and his keen observation of details in nature has helped him with his drawing. He now lives in Virginia.

Tots can count each little finger, one by one,
in this sweet picture book.

*Ten little fingers, one hand . . . two.
Two small hands belong to you!
Two small hands have so much fun!
Count each finger one by one.*

Tiny tots can join a group of toddlers as they count their fingers, one by one, and enjoy delicious treats: one little finger points to cake, two little fingers tap a plate, three little fingers pinch a bite, and four little fingers squish it tight! But one piece of dessert just isn't enough—the toddlers want more! When they're done, a parent cleans and kisses "two small hands on one small you!"

Little ones can count each little toe, one by one,
in this sweet companion picture book.

*Ten little toes on two small feet.
These ten toes are ten times sweet!*

Tiny tots can join a group of toddlers for an exciting day as their ten little toes wriggle and wiggle, splatter and pitter-patter, and wobble-wobble! After a toddler takes a tiny bump and falls, a parent offers comfort and kisses those little toes before setting the child back down. Once two feet touch the floor, ten little toes are off again!

A sweet, interactive call-and-response picture book about a daddy pig and his adorable daughter's fun day.

It's another bright morning, and tons of fun activities await! Over the course of a day, a daddy pig and his little piglet wake up, get dressed, breakfast on pancakes with syrup, ride bicycles, play on the swings, enjoy lunch, play hide-and-seek, take a bath, and then get ready for bed, eager for the next day to come. This rhythmic call-and-response book provides an entertaining and interactive reading experience perfect for little ones who like to be hands-on. Kids will love reciting the text when prompted with "When I say pancakes, you say more . . . When I say syrup, you say pour. . . When I say swing me, you say high. . . In this beautifully illustrated picture book, one little girl and her father are on their way to school as the whole city wakes up around them.

The city is still fast asleep when a young girl and her father leave the house for school one morning. But slowly, light starts to creep up over the buildings, and the city starts to wake up. As they walk through the drowsy streets, a woman sets off on her morning jog, stores begin to open, and food deliveries are made to groceries and restaurants. Young readers will enjoy joining this father and his daughter on their morning walk through the city in this endearing picture book.

The gumdrop sun rises high in the cotton candy sky.

A fun, adorable picture book about a “terrible”—but truly lovable—toddler!

Little Tim doesn't mean to be terrible! He simply likes to draw . . . on the walls of the house! And he likes to roar . . . at the birds in the backyard! He likes to dash through the clothes hanging on the laundry line and splash his mom while she's giving him a bath. He throws his food and stomps up the stairs and knocks down his tower of blocks. But at the end of a hectic day, he also loves to cuddle and snuggle, which isn't so terrible after all!

No one likes to be stared at, as Bear soon finds out! This fun book introduces children to good manners.

There once was a bear who liked to STARE. Bear doesn't mean to be rude; he's just curious. But nobody likes to be stared at, and Bear's unnerving habit soon gets him into trouble: the ladybugs find somewhere else to eat, the birds shoo him away, and an annoyed badger bites his nose! Luckily, a googly-eyed frog sets Bear straight, teaching him to smile and say hello, and Bear finally begins to make new friends.

DUNCAN BEEDIE is a freelance illustrator and animator based in Bristol, England. He has worked in animation on a diverse series of projects for British television and web clients. When not hunched over a graphics tablet, he likes to get out and about with his dog, Ivor, and attempt to teach his daughter not to put random items in the DVD player.

“Not much fun being stared at, is it?”
said the frog.

“I suppose not,” muttered Bear. “It’s just that
I don’t know what to say to anyone, and before
I’ve had a chance to think, it’s too late.”

An enchanting, beautifully illustrated retelling of the classic tale of the twelve dancing princesses.

In a land far, far away live a king and twelve beautiful princesses. Each evening the princesses are locked in their bedroom, yet each morning they wake up with their slippers worn through, as if they have been dancing all night long. Who will solve the mystery of the tattered shoes and claim one of the princesses as his bride? With dazzling illustrations by Alison Jay, this is an enchanting retelling of a classic tale.

A beautiful and stunning story about a little girl with an amazing talent for playing hide-and-seek.

Meet Heidi—if you can find her, that is! Heidi is the best at hide-and-seek: in school, at the playground, or in the park. Her friends know how much she loves hiding, so they happily play with her. But when being too good at hiding makes Heidi miss all the other fun her friends are having, she learns the importance of sharing the limelight with others—and how much more fun it can be when you appreciate what your friends are good at, too! Heidi realizes that she can enjoy the activities her friends like, even if she isn't the best!

A beautiful adaptation of the classic Christmas tale for young children, complete with breathtaking illustrations.

Clara and Fritz can't wait for their family's Christmas Eve party to start and for their magical godfather, Uncle Drosselmeyer, to bring their gifts. He finally arrives with many wonderful toys, but Clara is taken by a simple nutcracker. Fritz, however, snatches and breaks her precious toy! Drosselmeyer repairs it, and after everyone goes to sleep, Clara runs to say good night to the nutcracker. But then something very strange happens. The Christmas tree and everything around it seem to expand, and huge squeaking mice invade the room. But her nutcracker springs to life to defend her! This beautifully adapted classic tale with striking illustrations makes a perfect Christmas gift for young readers.

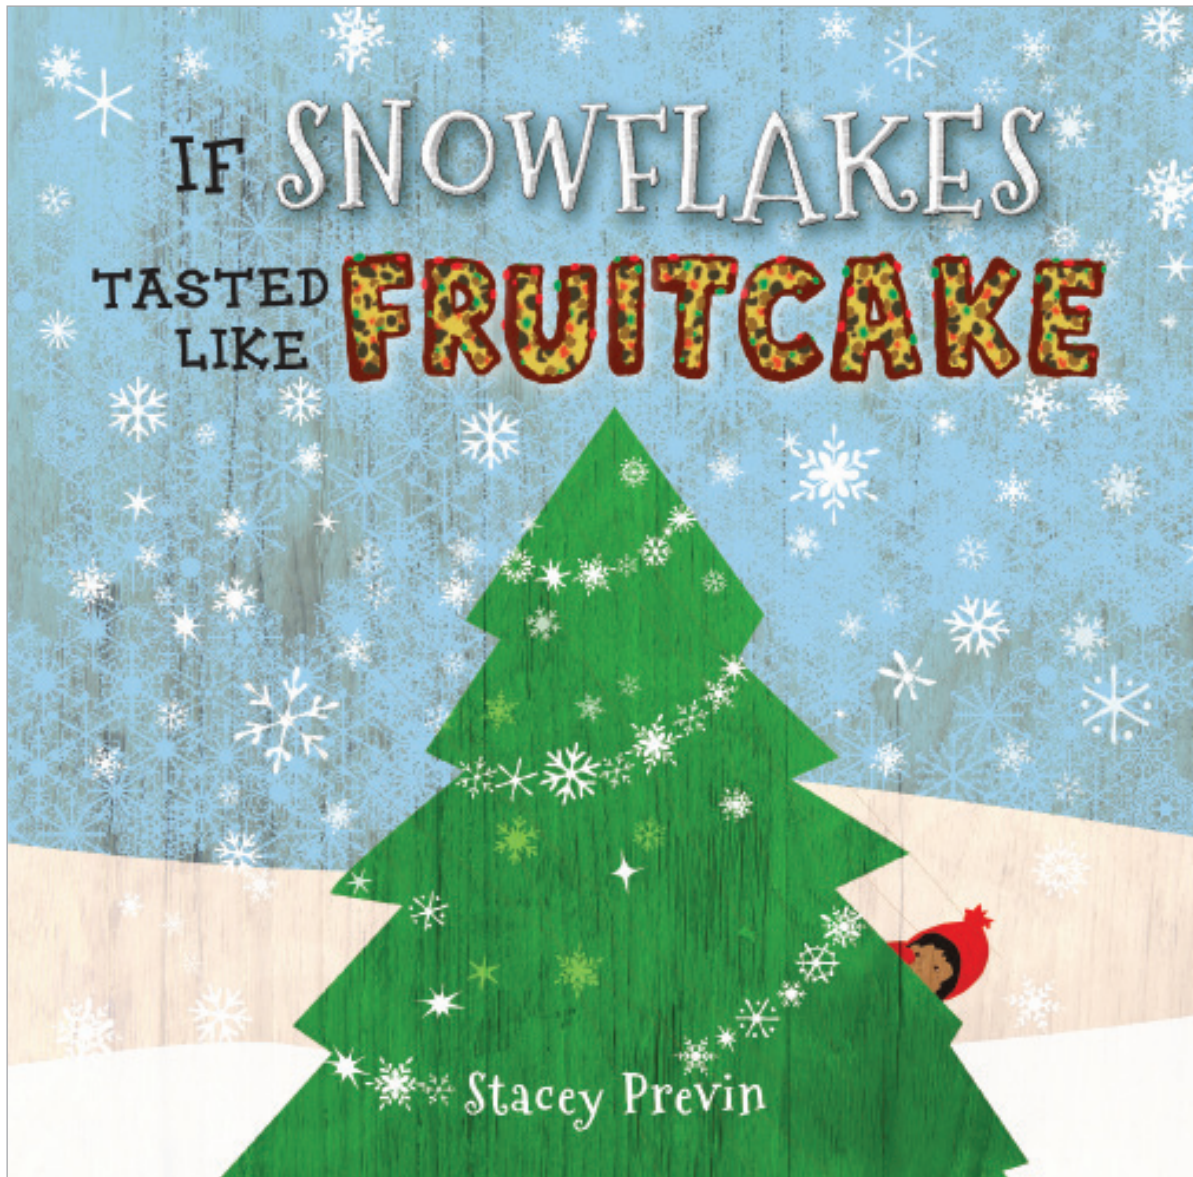

The soldier high-stepped and then jumped and spun like a top. The ballerina did a dance with delicate footwork and pretty pirouettes. The clown somersaulted, leaped, and did splits in the air!

For young science-fiction fans, this is an imaginative field guide to a fantasy world of mechanical creatures, featuring amazing and beautiful steampunk-inspired illustrations.

At the end of the 23rd century, Earth could no longer support wildlife. Corporations continued to expose the environment to chemical and radioactive waste, and many Earth species began to disappear. In place of the lost wildlife species, the corporations of both the East and West begin to create Mechanica: human-created life forms designed to replace the old. Miss Liberty Crisp created this field guide of her observations and illustrations of the exotic Mechanica creatures she found on her many field trips in East Asia. Kids will marvel at the steampunk-inspired renderings of mechanical bugs, birds, bats, snakes, and more!

nonfiction books

The Blast Back! series introduces young readers to world history in a fun, appealing way, giving them an entertaining, educational peek into the past.

In World War II, kids will find out why the Second World War began, the horror of the Holocaust, how spies deciphered enemy codes, the ways in which small resistance groups did battle with the Axis powers, and more. Readers will discover little-known facts about wartime life throughout the world. This book is perfect for teachers and librarians looking to introduce the topic to their students—and for any young reader interested in learning about it on her or his own.

SAMPLE SPREAD FROM BLAST BACK!: ANCIENT GREECE

Kids can blast back in time to the maiden voyage—and the tragic sinking—of the RMS Titanic and discover what life was like aboard the infamous, doomed ocean liner.

This engaging nonfiction book, complete with black-and-white interior illustrations, will make young readers feel as if they’ve traveled back in time to 1912. It reveals fascinating, little-known facts: how the magnificent Titanic was built, what the passengers did on board for fun, that the anchor was so heavy it required twenty horses to lift it, that the ship’s musicians continued to play as the ship sank into its watery grave, and more. Such unique details, along with the clever illustrations, make this series stand out from the competition.
